

Plane Wreck Is Believed to be Liner Missing For Three Days

Veteran Pilot Makes Tentative Identification From Air

NO SIGN OF LIFE
Hours and Perhaps Days
Required to Reach Scene

Albuquerque, N. M.—(P)—Airplane wreckage a mile and a half up an eastern Arizona mountain range was sighted today and tentatively identified by a veteran searching pilot as the lost Douglas skyliner, missing since Saturday with eight persons.

Major A. D. Smith, Albuquerque superintendent of TWA, reported the sighting by radio.

The spot was northwest of Mount Baldy at a mountain elevation of about 8,500 feet. There was no sign of life in the twisted mass.

The discovery in the snow-choked timberlands itself offered a new obstacle—a hazardous ascent by ground crews which would require hours and perhaps days. The veteran pilot, flying a trimotor transport, said the wreckage was in an inaccessible region. He told airport operative here his ship was circling the spot until Major Victor Bertrandias could arrive from Winslow with a ground party which he had organized this morning.

Baldy is about 30 miles west and slightly north of Alpine where numerous reports of sighting the plane came in yesterday and last night. It is on the border of the Fort Apache Indian reservation.

Winslow, Ariz.—(P)—Belief persisted today that an airliner, missing for three days with eight persons aboard, would be found in rugged, snow-covered country along the Arizona-New Mexico border—probably wrecked.

Major Victor Bertrandias, export manager for Douglas Aircraft corporation which built the plane for sale to the Royal Dutch Airlines of Holland, held to such a conviction despite a two-day plane search of the area.

The huge de luxe skyliner left Los Angeles Saturday and was being ferried to New York for consignment to Holland.

Bertrandias, who took full charge of the hunt, said the unsolicited reports of a plane having been seen in apparent distress "have been too consistent" to be ignored.

Although searches had not abandoned all hope, Major Bertrandias shook his head after a flight over the Mt. Baldy region.

No Place to Land
"It's the roughest country I've ever seen," he said. "Only by a miracle could a ship have survived a landing there."

"Absolutely nothing but bad weather could have caused this. Glen Moser, the pilot, had orders not to fly through dangerous weather. Evidently he was only trying to escape bad weather when he veered south and ran into trouble."

The reports checked were that a strange plane had been seen, apparently in trouble, and circling off its course over the wild mountain country between Escudillo and Baldy peaks in Arizona. 60 miles southwest of Gallup, N. M., all reports came from an area of less than 40 miles radius.

The veteran airman, with a party of Douglas officials and a department of commerce representative, flew here yesterday from Burbank, Calif.

On the missing plane, besides Pilot Moser were his father, James Moser, Sr., Los Angeles; Co-Pilot Joe Wolford, 32; Merle Ester, 29, of Hollywood; and his wife, Mrs. Lucille Ester; Bernard Troy, Jr., 33, Santa Monica; Roland Kent, Los Angeles; and Mrs. B. B. Bruderslin, Ocean Park, Calif.

Fair Weather as Badger Citizens Go to Polls

Milwaukee —(P)—Fair weather favored Wisconsin voters today as they went to the polls to elect a state supreme court justice and a state superintendent of public instruction.

Atrociously contests, referendum issues and other races stimulated voters in many communities. Each county voted on a county judge and school officials. Six circuit judges were seeking re-election and in Milwaukee a circuit court vacancy caused by a death was being filled.

Federal Tribunal Upholds Validity Of 'Windfall Tax'

U. S. Circuit Court Affirms Decision in North Carolina

Richmond, Va.—(P)—The fourth federal circuit court of appeals today upheld the constitutionality of the "windfall" taxes in affirming the decision of the district court at Salisbury, N. C., in the case of the White Packing company versus the collector of internal revenue.

The opinion in the case, written by Judge John J. Parker, upheld the district court's dismissal of a suit brought to enjoin collection of the 20 per cent tax under title 3 of the revenue act of 1935.

The court declared that the White Packing company came under the classification of those processors who had shifted the burden of the processing tax, later declared unconstitutional, without paying it.

The supreme court decision invalidating the processing tax, the court here said, held it invalid because it was not a tax at all but a mere step in a plan for the regulation of agriculture beyond the powers of congress.

"The 'windfall' tax, on the other hand, is not a step in any plan of unconstitutional regulation of agriculture or industry, but a tax in the strictest sense of the word imposed for the purpose of meeting an anticipated deficit in the budget due to the passage of the soldiers' bonus bill and the invalidation of the processing taxes," Judge Parker's decision said.

The opinion said that if the appellant realized no net income as a result of the business upon which the processing tax was imposed, he is not liable for the "windfall" tax.

Voting Is Light At Polls Today

Expected Because It Is An Off-Election Year

Consistent with pre-election forecast, a light vote was being reported throughout the city in the spring election today. The light vote was expected because it is an off-election year when no mayor is elected.

Even in the Third ward where 40 candidates are in the race for alderman, a report at noon today at the first precinct poll indicated the ward vote would be comparatively light. There were 123 votes cast in the precinct as against 187 in the same precinct two years ago.

Only 96 votes were cast in the first precinct of the Fifth ward as compared to 160 in the same precinct two years ago. The wards two years ago had only two precincts, but last year the First, Third, Fifth and Sixth were divided into three precincts.

In the first precinct of the Second ward 90 votes were cast up to noon. 59 votes less than were cast up to the same hour two years ago. Election clerks in the first precinct of the Fourth ward reported 65 ballots cast up to noon. There were 78 ballots cast in the first precinct of the First ward and 64 votes in the first precinct of the Sixth ward.

Reparations Ordered For Excessive Rates

Washington —(P)—The interstate commerce commission yesterday ordered the Chicago, Kalamazoo and Saginaw railway and other carriers to pay the Kalamazoo, Mich., vegetable parchment company reparations for "unreasonable rates" charged on wood pulp shipments from Appleton, Wis., to Kalamazoo, Mich., and Hartford City, Ind. The company made the shipments in 1931, 1932 and 1933.

Sees 'Blunder' In Proposal to Revamp Court

Former Head of New York Bar Calls Plan 'Shabby
by Enterprise'

THREAT TO FUTURE
Independence of Court
Fundamental Issue,
Witness Says

Washington —(P)—Charles C. Burlingham, former president of the New York Bar association, denounced the Roosevelt court bill before the senate judiciary committee today. He called it a "shabby enterprise."

Prior to his appearance as a witness an agreement between Senators Wheeler (D-Mont.) and O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) intensified discussion of a possible constitutional amendment as an alternative to the Roosevelt measure.

Wheeler, an outspoken objector to revamping the supreme court, said he would vote for O'Mahoney's amendment to require a two-thirds majority of the court to invalidate any statute.

Burlingham, testifying before one of the smallest crowds that has attended the hearings, warned that "liberals and radicals, and labor too, may curse the day when the Roosevelt bill was conceived."

"As a supporter, an admirer and a friend of the president," Burlingham added, "I cannot refrain from saying that I think he has made a great blunder and should retract his steps and proceed on the road charted for him by the constitution—I mean by amendment."

He suggested an amendment such as that proposed by Senator Burke (D-Neb.) to fix the age for retirement of judges.

Burlingham said the Roosevelt bill raised "the most important question presented to the American people since the Civil war." The fundamental question, he said, was "whether the supreme court is to be independent or controlled."

Dictatorship Threat
The courts, he added, were bludgeoned by the constitution "beyond the reach of political pressure."

"I am not one of those who imagine that the president is reaching for more power to make himself a dictator," he said. "That is absurd and unthinkable."

"But President Roosevelt is not the last president of the United States; there will be others. All the Huey Longs are not dead, and as the political pendulum swings we may have reactionary presidents and reactionary senators who with this bill as a precedent may make a new court responsive to their will, and liberals and radicals, and labor, too, may curse the day when the Roosevelt bill was conceived."

Vienna Believed
Lindberghs' Goal

Famous Couple Flies
Northward From Zagreb, Yugoslavia

Vienna —(P)—Aviation officials, without word from Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, expressed belief today the couple was flying direct to London from Zagreb, Yugoslavia. The weather, at first cloudy with light rain, was clearing.

Zagreb, Yugoslavia —(P)—Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh hopped off from Zagreb in sunny weather today at 11:32 a. m. (4:32 a. m. C.S.T.) and turned the nose of their touring monoplane toward the north.

Airport officials said the plane was not carrying a full load of gasoline and consequently they believed Vienna was their destination. "With his amount of fuel," the commandant said, "it will be impossible for Lindbergh to reach Paris non-stop."

Lindbergh supervised the rolling out of his plane from its hangar posed for photographs with military pilots and officials at the airport. He waved a cheerful greeting to the crowd that had arrived to see him and his wife off.

The Lindberghs charted a course for London from Zagreb, skirting the Alpine barrier on the last leg of what was believed to have been a survey for a new commercial skyway route from England to India.

Although Colonel Lindbergh has not said why he flew thousands of miles over commercially uncharted routes under the most adverse conditions, aerial observers declared the flight was conclusive proof of a cardinal point: an England-India air route is feasible under commercial aviation conditions.

Newton State Bank Is Burglarized of $4,000

Manitowish —(P)—Burglars looted the Newton State bank of $4,000 last night, gaining access to the cash by burning a hole through the top of the safe.

The loss was discovered this morning by Chief Erwin Bruckschen who opened the bank. He said the burglars entered the building by cutting the glass out of a side window, and burned the hole through the safe with an acetylene torch. The bank has no vault.

"We haven't checked up yet, but they got about $4,000 in cash," Bruckschen said.

Authorities reported that the burglars used the water contained in two milk cans to prevent the safe from becoming too hot as they worked with the torch. They made a small hole first, and continued pouring water into it until it became large enough to reach in.

Natural 'Corner' Skyrockets Prices Of Corn to Highest Mark in 17 Years

Chicago —(P)—Mother Nature is "cornering" the corn market. Grain traders said today skyrocketing corn prices to the highest level in 17 years and dwindling supplies have brought about a market phenomenon—a "natural corner."

This is to be distinguished, they said, from that now impossible market situation known as a "technical" or "manipulated corner."

The latter is now unlawful and there are strict board of trade regulations to prevent it. The "natural corner," traders said, just can't be helped.

Strike Issue Still Before Upper House

Robinson Agrees on Need For 'Declaration Of Policy'

COAL BILL PASSED
Senate Adoption of One of Three Proposals Is Expected

Washington —(P)—Senate majority leader Robinson (D-Ark.) said today he had agreed with other administration chiefs on a "declaration of policy" on sit-down strikes. It will be brought before the senate for speedy action Wednesday, he said.

Robinson said a group of Democratic senators had decided at a prolonged conference this morning on a modified version of a resolution offered yesterday by Senator Pittman (D-Neb.)

In its original form, this resolution condemned sit-downs as "illegal" and contrary to sound public policy, and also denounced "the so-called industrial spy system" used by some employers to combat labor unions.

Robinson said he would offer an amendment to the resolution, approved by the conference, but did not reveal its nature.

Pittman Proposal
The Pittman measure is a concurrent resolution—in effect, a mere statement of policy by both houses of congress, which does not require any action by the president.

It is limited to "industries within the jurisdiction of congress," and therefore would not apply to strictly intrastate businesses.

The Pittman resolution and two others kept the troublesome sit-down issue before the senate after it had rejected yesterday a proposal to insert into the Guffey-Vinson coal bill a policy declaration against such strikes.

Robinson led the opposition to the proposal of Senator Byrnes (D-S.C.) calling sit-down strikes illegal and against public policy. Administration forces voted it down 48 to 36 and then speedily approved the coal bill 58 to 15 late yesterday.

Robinson and others made it plain they were not condoning the strikes, but merely believed the denunciation had no place in the coal measure.

One-Sided Amendment
Although no one defended the legality of the sit-down method, a group of senators led by Wagner (D-N.Y.) protested the Byrnes amendment.

Flood Menacing Alabama Region

Dozens of Families are Driven From Low-
Lying Homes

Montgomery, Ala.—(P)—Flood waters menaced southeastern Alabama today while the south counted 12 killed by weekend wind and rain storms.

Yesterday's rainfall of 2 to 10 inches over the central southern tier of Alabama counties sent the Conecuh, Pea and Choctawhatchee rivers racing past flood stages and drove dozens of families from low-lying homes.

Weather bureau observers said they were unable to estimate the crests of the three relatively small streams, but the inundation of hundreds of acres of farm land was feared while the rain load was being carried through southeastern Alabama and northwestern Florida to the gulf.

Precautions were taken in the Brewton, Geneva and Elba districts. Twelve prisoners in Elba were moved to Troy, Ala., as the town prepared for high waters of the Pea river.

Red Cross workers entered storm-stricken areas to estimate the needs of more than 400 temporary homeless.

Fire Chief C. J. Sanders of Pakhokee, Fla., estimated hail and rain last night destroyed 90 per cent of the bean and tomato crop on 10,000 acres in that vicinity. Many fields were under two feet of water, he said.

A precipitation of one-half to four inches was the rule from eastern Texas to the Carolinas yesterday, while winds of near tornado force centered their attack on Alabama, killing six, injuring twenty-nine and destroying thousands of dollars worth of buildings.

A Sunday squall on the fringes of yesterday's disturbance caused the first fatalities when six were drowned after two boats overturned in a lake near San Antonio, Texas.

Acting Fire Chief Is Named at Stevens Point

Stevens Point —(P)—Fireman George McDonald became acting fire chief today, succeeding Frank F. Kirsling who was demoted to the rank of regular fireman by the police and fire commission.

McDonald, who was a pipeman, has been in the department for 24 years, and is the oldest in point of service.

Kirsling was demoted yesterday when the commission sustained charges brought against him by Lyman Rowe, Jr., who claimed Kirsling was incompetent, lacked executive ability, and was guilty of mismanagement and improper conduct in the treatment of his men. The commission ordered the demotion effective May 1.

Lansing, Mich.—(P)—More than 500 employees in the General Motors steering gear plant here started a sit-down strike shortly after noon today demanding recognition of a shop steward system.

Company officials said the strike was called by local leaders of the United Automobile Workers' union. Some non-union employees left the plant in small groups, but between 500 and 600 workers were estimated to have stayed inside. The plant employs 1,200 workers on three shifts.

Company police guarded entrances to prevent any additional men going into the factory. Company officials were reported to have granted yesterday a wage increase of 5 cents an hour and agreed to recognize "compliance" grievance committees.

Lansing, Mich.—(P)—Virtually at the end of its quest for a pact ending the month-long Chrysler automobile strike, Governor Frank Murphy's peace conference reconvened today.

Only the final phraseology of a collective bargaining formula designed to compose not only the Chrysler dispute but other labor differences in the motor car industry, remained to be settled.

An agreement between Walter P. Chrysler, chairman of the motor corporation's board, and John L. Lewis, head of the committee for industrial organization, would open the way for quick return to work of more than 80,000 workers, nearly 65,000 of them Chrysler employees.

Governor Murphy, mediator in the industry's second major strike of the year, and Chrysler waited nearly 40 minutes this morning before Lewis, whose C. I. O. is supporting the automobile workers in their strikes, arrived at the executive chambers.

None of the conferees would comment on what formula was relied on to settle the union's exclusive bargaining demands, refusal of which started the strike March 8.

An informed source, however, said the striking United Automobile Workers of America had submitted this proposal: U. A. W. A. recognition for its members; Chrysler not to sponsor or support any other union and to do nothing "derogatory" to the U. A. W. A.; any dispute on this to be submitted to Chrysler; and Lewis for settlement; both union and corporation pledge not to coerce any company employees.

Without announcement or explanation, Chrysler and other company executives conferred here last night with the managers of the eight Detroit plants which are closed. The managers remained in Lansing overnight.

From an authoritative source came the prediction that an agreement might be obtained today. This informant said that a settlement might be expected tomorrow at the latest, if not today.

Appleton, Twin Cities Students are Active in U. of Wisconsin Affairs

BY BRUCE DALRYMPLE

Madison—George Rooney, 623 W. Sixth street, Appleton, recently won two important political honors on the University of Wisconsin campus when he was elected basketball representative on the athletic board and a member of the university Co-op board.

The basketball star was chosen by his teammates to succeed Gordon Fuller as member of the athletic board, at the Gyro club banquet and his second office was won less than 24 hours later.

A junior in the school of commerce, Rooney helps to pay for his education by waiting on table and working as university life-guard in the summer. He is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon social fraternity and was on the tickets committee of last year's sophomore dance.

John Frank, 228 N. Park avenue, Appleton, gained the office of junior member-at-large on the university Union board by default when he was the only one to enter the campaign.

John Frank recently was advanced to the finals in the tenth annual $100 Frankenburger oratorical contest, but was defeated by Samuel Mintz of New York.

Byron Bell Star Cager

Byron Bell, 518 Maple street, Neenah, was awarded his major letter for basketball last week at the Gyro club banquet for the Wisconsin basketball team.

Bell won his position as regular center on the squad soon after the season's opening game and kept improving to the end of the schedule, becoming particularly effective on under-the basket play. He is expected to be one of the mainstays of the team next year.

A sophomore in the School of Music, Bell is majoring in instruction.

Progressives Ponder Stand on Probe Plans

Washington—(P)—Wisconsin Progressives are planning an early conference to decide how the group will vote on house resolutions calling for investigations of nazism and of sit-down strikes.

They discussed the sit-down strike issue at a conference with other self-styled liberals in the house last week, but deferred a decision and planned a conference among themselves today or tomorrow.

Conflicting opinions were manifested over the desirability of a sit-down strike inquiry, but most Progressives expressed strong opposition to any "one-sided" investigation.

"It is not so much a question of an investigation," said Representative Harry Southoff, Madison, Wis., "as it is a question of getting a fair and impartial hearing."

"Some of us feel that if there is going to be an investigation of sit-down strikes it should be undertaken by the house labor committee."

Southoff voiced similar sentiment about the proposal to investigate nazism in this country.

Board Restores 71-2 Per Cent of Teacher's Cut

Wage Increase Will Affect 40 Kaukauna Instructors

Kaukauna—The board of education last night voted to restore half of the 15 per cent wage reduction made in teachers' salaries in September, 1933, and to make adjustments in salaries of teachers hired since that time.

The wage increase will be effective at the start of the next school term in September and will affect 40 teachers of which the salaries of 27 will be partially restored.

In adopting the restoration amendment, the board of education followed steps taken by the common council recently in restoring half of the 15 per cent wage cut taken in 1932 by firemen and policemen.

A special board of education committee composed of Mrs. Joseph McCarthy, chairman, Marshall Bayoregon and Edward F. Rennie met last week to discuss the salary situation and recommended the restoration.

The number of teachers affected included: high school, 16 restored, 3 adjusted; Park Grade and Junior High school, 7 restored, 2 adjusted; Nicolai Grade school, 4 restored, 3 adjusted.

The board also voted to purchase two new typewriters for the board and to advertise for bids on a power lawn mower. Plans to wax floors in Park and Nicolai schools before school opens next fall were discussed but no action was taken.

Wants Specialist To Help Wisconsin Cranberry Growers

Washington—(P)—Senator F. Ryan, Dufy of Wisconsin urged the agriculture department today to keep a trained specialist in Wisconsin to aid cranberry growers.

His request followed a letter from Vernon Goldworthy, manager of the Wisconsin Cranberry Sales company, Wisconsin Rapids, Wis., which said the department would withdraw the specialist it has kept in Wisconsin.

"If this practice of the department is discontinued," Goldworthy wrote, "it will be a decided handicap to us, as we need the aid of a specialist to solve many problems."

Unlike the farmer who can turn to various experiment stations, county agents, and similar sources of information, we have no such sources to which we can turn. Our success depends upon the aid which we can receive from the trained specialist."

Goldworthy said the growers would provide free office space, clerical help and berries for experimental use.

Following a noon luncheon there will be a demonstration of swarm control and queen breeding by Henry Schaefer, Osseo. A demonstration of methods of queen breeding, including the crating of cells, is slated for 2:30 and will be followed by a discussion of the foulbrood control program.

Irwin Continues To Elude Officers In Triple Slaying

Police Believe Alleged Murderer Hidden in Manhattan

New York—(P)—Through the shabby, dim-lighted rooming houses of the east fifties, detectives roamed today in search of a madman of esoteric philosophy accused of murder in triplicate.

Somewhere on Manhattan island's 22 square miles, police believed, lurked Robert Irwin, 29, sculptor and theological student and one-time inmate of an insane asylum, who was named as the killer of Veronica Gedeon, art's good-time girl, and two others.

The motive, as police deduced it: revenge for a frustrated love. The evidence: a hastily-vacated room near the Gedeon apartment; a glove, a hat, a diary.

Although police expressed the belief Irwin was still in New York, Massachusetts police watched highways in the eastern part of that state after receiving a report a man resembling him had fled from a Wallston beach inn in a New York car. New York authorities issued an eight-state alarm for Irwin yesterday.

Disclose Evidence

Police disclosed bits of what they termed incriminating circumstantial evidence against the chunky, divinity student at St. Lawrence university, Canton, N. Y.

First was his sudden trip to New York after his resignation at St. Lawrence—by request because he lacked "the proper character for the ministry." He arrived here Good Friday and took quarters in a Fifty-second street rooming house run by Charles Outburg and his wife.

Irwin was in love with Ethel, "Ronnie" Gedeon's sister, now married. Entries in his diary, discovered in Canton, showed that, at his own request, he had been psychoanalyzed and spent three years at the Rockland State hospital for the insane undergoing treatment.

Left Saturday

Apparently he stayed at the Outburg home until last Saturday, almost a full week after Mrs. Mary Gedeon Veronica's mother, was strangled to death. When he departed he left his hat, a large empty carton, and a box of salt.

A one-time roomer in the Gedeon household, Irwin was described as a young man, 29, with a mustache, of Ethel, Ellis A. Bates, an attorney who said he was speaking for a client who knew Irwin well, asserted the man hated Ronnie.

Frank Byrnes, waiter and the third person killed, was called merely an incidental victim. After Mrs. Gedeon was dispatched, Byrnes entered the apartment and had to be disposed of. The killer's venture was not released on Ronnie until after 2 o'clock a. m., when she returned from a date.

The glove, which police believed Irwin's, was found in the Gedeon apartment.

WANT AVIATION BODY

Milwaukee—(P)—The Wisconsin Civil Air Corps was on record today favoring creation of a state aviation commission to function under the direction of the industrial commission. It voted approval of the white bill before the legislature, which would establish such a commission.

STRIKE AT WAUKESHA

Waukesha—(P)—A labor dispute closed the plant of the Spring city foundry here yesterday when 250 employees left their posts and a picket line was thrown around the plant. The strikers did not announce their demands.

Winnebago Is Among Leaders In Butter Making

Stand at Top of Central Wisconsin District, Report Shows

(Post-Crescent Madison Bureau)
Madison—Winnebago county produces more creamery butter than any other county in the Central Wisconsin district, according to a report received from Walter H. Ebling, agricultural statistician of the department of agriculture and markets. Counties in the central district are Brown, Calumet, Door, Fond du Lac, Manitowish, Kewaunee, Outagamie, Sheboygan and Winnebago.

The last report available on creamery butter production shows Winnebago leading those counties with a total of 3,265,000 pounds during an average year. Total annual cheese production for the county is more than 7,000,000 pounds, including American, Brick and Munster Limburger and other varieties.

Other figures reported by Mr. Ebling show that the county has 2,662 farms, totaling 257,831 acres, with a value of $21,302,181. Principal sources of income for Winnebago county farmers are live-stock products, which together comprise 78.4 per cent. This total is divided as follows: 52.8 per cent for milk; 9.2 per cent for cattle and calves; 7.9 per cent for hogs; 7.8 per cent for poultry and eggs, and a small fraction from sheep, wool, honey and beeswax. The balance of total income is represented in crop production, divided as follows: potatoes, 2.6 per cent; fruits, 1.3 per cent; canning peas, 1.7 per cent; hay, 2.8 per cent; grains, 4.7 per cent; seeds, 5 per cent; cabbage, 4 per cent, and miscellaneous items, 7.6 per cent.

Much Interest Is Being Shown in Election Today

Five Aldermen, Two Justices Will Be Selected by Voters

Kaukauna—Ideal political weather and heavy registrations pointed to an active election today as voters moved into the polls to name five aldermen, two justices of the peace, and two school commissioners.

Besides the regular election, an informative ballot is being compiled in the first ward where voters yesterday to select their candidates for supervisor, a position left open by the recent death of John F. Hoolihan.

The names of candidates are either being written in or placed on stickers. Mayor John Niesen and the council will be asked to appoint to the supervisors whomever tallies the most votes. If this is done, Mayor Niesen will first have to resign, because he was appointed to the office by the council to represent the city at county board proceedings a week ago.

Doors in the four voting places opened at 6 o'clock this morning and will close at 8 o'clock tonight.

To Canvass Votes
The city council will canvass the votes at an adjourned meeting in the municipal building tomorrow night. Among the items of regular business which will come before the aldermen will be the opening of bids for a plain police squad car and for one equipped for ambulance cases.

Two referendums are also up before voters today, one to make the office of city attorney elective rather than appointive and the second to renege the $87,000 loan for construction of the gymnasium and auditorium.

Social Items

Kaukauna—The Woman's Aid society of the Evangelical Lutheran church will hold a regular meeting at 8:30 tomorrow afternoon at the church. Hostesses will be Mrs. Albert Schiefelbein, Mrs. Elvin Schubring, Mrs. Arthur Schubring and Mrs. Herbert Specht.

Members of the Sacred Heart Court No. 556, Women's Catholic Order of Foresters, will hold a regular meeting at 8 o'clock tomorrow night in the St. Mary's church hall. Installation of officers and initiation of new members will be held. A social hour will follow.

Members of the Business and Professional Women's club of this city have received two invitations to attend meetings outside the city Saturday night.

One is to the district gathering at Manitowish and the second to the state meeting in Madison at which Mrs. Philip LaFollette, wife of the governor, will speak. Members of the Kaukauna club who wish to attend either of these functions must make reservations with Miss Blanche Gerd by tomorrow night.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin De Bruin entertained the following people at their home Sunday evening: Mr. and Mrs. Peter De Bruin and daughter, Gem. Mr. and Mrs. Norbert Hartjes, Mr. Simon Hietpas, Little Chute; Mr. and Mrs. Frank De Bruin, Menasha; Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester De Bruin and son, John, Appleton.

Saint Ann's court No. 226, Women's Catholic Order of Foresters will hold a regular meeting tonight in the Holy Cross church hall. A social hour will follow.

Report Politicians Buy Fewer Cigars This Year

Kaukauna—Either election cigars are scarce this year or their distribution by confident candidates to prospective political constituents has become a bygone tradition, but tavern keepers and others dealing in tobacco in this city agree, almost unanimously, that sales haven't increased appreciably during the campaign which reached its climax in today's balloting.

"Oh, I've noticed a little difference, a few more sold the past week, maybe," one bartender said. "This 'little difference, may be' is about all that remains of the banner-carrying, hand-playing political campaigns of a past era when those seeking election carried their fight into the saloons and counted cigars, long and black, among the most important items of their ammunition."

"We used to sell a lot more cigars in the old saloon days during campaigns," one veteran bartender remembered. "But those days are gone now. There isn't nearly as much campaigning done in the modern

Wagner Failed to Stand by Pledge, Lawrence Claims

Says Amendment Was Needed to Make Labor Act Two-Sided

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington—Senator Wagner of New York, Democrat, has been busy explaining to his constituents just what he meant when he said the "sit-down" strikes were provoked by the attitude of employers who had been obtaining court injunctions against the Wagner Labor Relations act.

Mr. Wagner insists that the is not conceding "sit-down" strikes, but he places the major responsibility for them on the backs of employers. An examination of the record, however, will reveal that the attitude of employers in fighting the Wagner Labor Relations act is due almost entirely to the fact that Senator Wagner himself backed down on his promise, publicly given at the hearings, to make the national labor relations act two-sided, and persuaded the United States senate to accept his change of heart.

Indeed, there would be no need today for a discussion in the United States senate of the Byrnes amendment of the Pittman resolution or any of the other proposals to denounce "sit-down" strikes when arising in businesses engaged in interstate commerce if the senate had acted on a proposal made in May, 1935, by Senator Tydings of Maryland to prohibit "coercion or intimidation from any source."

On March 26, 1934, Senator Wagner, at the public hearings, responded to comment from a witness who wanted "coercion from any source" prohibited. Mr. Wagner said:

Favors Amendment
"So far as your proposition is concerned, I think the bill ought to be amended so as to include the intimidation or coercion from any source, if there is any question as to whether the courts have not already ruled time and time again that they will restrain any such acts when the worker exercises them. I want to have that there."

"Now I think the act ought to be amended just as you suggested, that is, intimidation, when it comes from any source, either a trade organization, or a company union, or any employer, or to be made an unfair labor practice, so that we are in agreement on that."

The witness happened to be someone who is an important figure so far as employers are concerned, James A. Emery, general counsel of the National Association of Manufacturers. In the same hearings, the point was subsequently made even more specific in the following, which appears in the official record:

"Senator Wagner: Mr. Emery, if we amend the act as suggested, it should be amended so that any intimidation, coercion or anything of that kind is an improper labor practice—

"Mr. Emery: 'Unfair labor practice' from whatever source it may come, then this power would go to labor organizations, too, would it not, the power to restrain coercion, intimidation, or these other unfair labor practices. With that amendment, of course, your criticism, etc."

What Mr. Emery sought at the time was the inclusion of language used by President Roosevelt in the settlement of the automobile dispute in March, 1934, when the president, in a public statement, said:

"The government makes clear that it favors no particular union or particular form of employee organization or representation. The government's only duty is to secure absolute and unimpeded freedom of choice without coercion, restraint, or intimidation from any source."

Believing that the president had expressed the principle correctly and that Senator Wagner himself had accepted it at the hearing during the same month, the employers sought, a year later, when the Wagner bill was up for passage, the inclusion of an amendment embodying these views. Senator Tydings proposed it on May 15, 1935, and his amendment would have prohibited "coercion or intimidation from any source." But labor union leaders opposed it and administration leaders, including Senator Wagner, combined to defeat the proposal.

The argument was that the courts already had sufficient power to restrain coercion. The late Senator Couzens of Michigan was amazed at Senator Wagner's refusal to stick by his original pledge. Mr. Couzens is quoted in the official record as follows:

Couzens Amazed
"Of course the senator from Maryland knows, as does the senator from New York—and that is the reason why I am astonished by the objection of the senator from New York to this amendment—that in every big industrial community there is competition between one union and another. There is just as much fight, there is just as much effort, there is just as much salesmanship, there is just as much force used in many cases to induce workmen to join one union as to join another. For the life of me I do not understand why a union should be enabled to coerce a worker into an organization which he does not choose to join."

What the senator from Michigan is trying to do is to support the contention of the senator from Maryland that coercion between union and union should be prohibited. It is not enough to say that in 48 jurisdictions there is sufficient remedy. If there is sufficient remedy, as the senator from New York contends, let us put it in the act."

Amendment Defeated
Senator Couzens was a friend of labor and one of the "liberals" in the senate. But the Tydings amendment was defeated and thus the matter was turned over to state courts on the assumption that they could deal with coercion of workmen by fellow workmen. Today, as a result of the failure of Senator Wagner and the Roosevelt administration to permit his own law to be amended, there is no federal prohibition of coercion by workers of fellow workers and the state of Michigan has found itself powerless to enforce the laws that Mr. Wagner had insisted were the real remedy for the situation complained of by the employers.

If the reasoning used by Senator Wagner in his speech in the senate last week were to be followed, then the refusal of the employers to accept the Wagner Labor Relations act and their insistence on getting court injunctions was in it.

self provoked by Senator Wagner and his colleagues who refused to make the national labor relations act two-sided in which case the "sit-down" strike would have been likewise applied for injunctions restraining the courts, and, until the legality of the issue had been determined in an orderly way in the courts, sit-down strikes would have been held in abeyance. For the courts usually grant injunctions whenever destruction of property is threatened and the loss by failure to restrain the complained-of act is likely to involve irreparable losses while the subject is being adjudicated.

How Appleton Grew Under Its 30 Mayors Since 1857

(This is the eighth of a series of articles discussing Appleton's mayors and the important matters occurring during their administrations. These articles will appear once a week in the Post-Crescent.)

BY LLOYD J. DERUS

After several years of planning the city poor house and first jail were constructed in 1870 when A. L. Smith served as mayor. Previous to this time city prisoners were confined to the county jail.

An amendment to the city charter, extending the city limits, was approved during his term. Early in 1871, before the expiration of Mayor Smith's term, the first blast furnace in the city was put into operation. Bradley Smith and company planned to conduct a paper pulp mill and Appleton at this time was seen as a budding industrial center of the Fox river valley.

The city's population grew from 2,345 in 1860 to 4,680 in 1870. The Appleton Collegiate Institute was incorporated in 1870 and two newspapers, Appleton Volksfreund and Outagamie Times were published for the first time.

Roads leading to the city and streets in the city were constantly being improved and widened and a draw bridge at the foot of Jackson street was ordered built by the common council.

During the year the First National bank began operations and

Conservation Commission Tells How to Identify Them, Discusses Their Value to State

POISON SUMACH
This small tree or large shrub is found only on low, wet ground in the southern part of the state, while the other sumachs are found on well drained soil. The compound alternate leaves are 7 to 14 inches long with 7 to 13 oval leaflets. In general appearance the leaves resemble those of ash, but the leaf stems are always red, which is the best distinguishing characteristic of poison sumach. The fruit is a small grayish white shiny berry, hanging in slender drooping clusters. These ripen in September and remain on the tree till the following spring. The poison is similar in effect to that of the closely related poison ivy, but is even more virulent. With both, infection is usually due to contact. The sap becomes gummy on drying and is often carried to other parts of the body by the hands. For first aid, wash the exposed parts with hot water and strong soap, or gasoline, to remove as much of the poison as possible.

Concert Guest Artist Is Proclaimed by Critics

Seldom do concert audiences have the two-fold joy to eye and ear which is brought to the platform by Kayla Mitzel, sensational young Canadian-American violinist who will appear with the Appleton Symphony Orchestra on Thursday evening at Lawrence Memorial chapel.

It has become virtually an axiom that great physical loveliness is not to be hoped for in artists whose accomplishments entitle them to a place among the foremost recitalists. Particularly is this true of the violin where the physical requirements of the instrument seem to have decreed that practically all of the great feminine artists should be of almost Amazonian proportions. Kayla Mitzel is that rare exception—a stunning girl of average size whose tone has been the marvel of every critic who has reviewed her playing. While her technique has been consistently described as "flawless, brilliant, amazing"—naturally such technique is to be expected of an artist whom such a critic as Carl Flesch has proclaimed "the greatest living woman violinist." A lovely warm tone, too, is to be expected of a violinist so feted—but when critics proclaim that her tone rises to proportions of "demonic fire" and when it "surpasses in volume and warmth many of our well-known male artists" then we realize why this girl's playing has created such a profound sensation.

It is this quality of depth which is a part of Kayla Mitzel, both as a musician and person, combined with her physical attractiveness which have made her one of the most popular young artists in Europe and America. It is that "certain something" which has brought her out from the rank of good violinists into that select group destined for real greatness.

Neenah, Menasha and Oshkosh. However the Oshkosh singers will hold their own rehearsals with Prof. Theiss going there for several of them.

It is expected that over 150 men will turn out for the male choir which will sing at the field mass which opens the rally May 16. Rehearsals will be held in Appleton each Wednesday night beginning this week.

Overbidders Often Have Skill to Win Contracts

BY ELY CULBERTSON
Scientists never tire of pointing out that nature strives to offset its frequent errors by a process of compensation. Although it is not generally admitted that bridge players deserve any consideration, I think it only just that they should share in this cosmic plan. And, as a matter of fact, I have noticed that elegant over-bidders often are given the playing skill to "get away with" their optimistic contracts. Today's hand is an example.

South, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

NORTH

K ♣ 9 6
A ♠ 10

SOUTH

The bidding:
South West North East
1 spades Pass 3 spades 4 clubs
4 diamonds Pass 4 spades Pass
4 no trump Pass 5 diamonds Pass
5 spades Pass Pass

South's bidding obviously was outrageous. Not content to take warning from North's repeated sign-offs to the slams, South crashed into the final bid like a bull. I must admit, however, that his subsequent play left no ground for criticism.

West opened a club, which East won with the ten, returning the king. Declarer jumped on this with the jack of trumps, then led a small trump to dummy. He next ruffed another club with the spade ace and led his last trump. West's trumps were picked up while declarer discarded diamonds. The king of hearts was cashed, declarer carefully following with the ten, and a low heart led to the ace. East showing out, a finesse was established against West's jack. Dummy's fourth and fifth hearts were cashed, declarer discarding another diamond, and at this point East became squeezed to a pulp.

With only one diamond and the jack of clubs left in dummy, East had the sorry choice of letting go his diamond stopper or establishing the club jack by discarding his last club. He could, of course, hope that his partner had as good as the jack of diamonds, and therefore properly blanked the king. But now declarer took the fulfilling tricks with the ace and jack of diamonds.

Question: In using the two-way three bid, if the opening bid is in a minor, what strength should partner have to take out with three in a major?

Answer: He may bid three in a major if he has one honor trick in his hand with a five card suit.

Question: I am giving you the East and West hands as they occurred in a recent match-point duplicate game. North, the dealer, not vulnerable, opened the bidding with one heart. How should East and West bid to reach game?

Answer: East should bid two hearts over North's one heart. Only in this way can he be certain that game will be reached. A take-out double of one heart might be left.

in by partner for penalties. The bidding should go:
North East South West
1 heart 2 hearts 2 spades 2 spades
4 spades 4 spades 4 spades 4 spades

West having responded with spades, East should not bother with the club suit, especially in duplicate play, where four spades will produce a better score than will five clubs.

Five Great Rivers of Europe

IT—The Rhine
In Switzerland, there are 22 states or "cantons," and all except one have streams which help form the headwaters of the Rhine river. Melting edges of glaciers supply some of the water, and more comes from rain falling amid the Alps mountains.

The Rhine is famous because of its echo. Sometimes a steamer fires a small cannon, and the sound bounces back and forth between the rock and the cliffs on the opposite bank.

There is a legend that a lover, maiden once left in love with a man who did not return her love. In sadness she leapt into the Rhine, and became a siren. Known as "Lorelei," the siren was said to lure sailors to their death when she sang. The poet Heine wrote about "the Lorelei," and spoke of the "combing her golden hair."

The echo may be called "the voice of the Lorelei." There is actual danger of boats being wrecked at this bend in the river.

The Rhine is about 750 miles long, being over half the length of the Danube. It is, however, more used for commerce than any other river in Europe. Cologne, Bonn, Düsseldorf and Basel are large cities in the Rhine valley.

For Travel section of your scrapbook.

If you want a free copy of the illustrated leaflet "Stamps and Stamp Collecting" send me a 3c stamped, return envelope in care of this newspaper.

Alongside the great river are scores of old castles, and in days gone by some of the castles were homes of "robber barons." These barons had the custom of halting boats, and making them pay money, before being allowed to go on with their trips.

About 20 miles southeast of the city of Cologne is a famous sight—the Rock of the Lorelei. This rock has a height of 427 feet. It juts from one side of the river, at a place where the channel bends.

Every Girl Should Use Some Rouge

BY ELSIE PIERCE
ONE of Hollywood's master make-up artists has very definite ideas on the subject of rouge. Every girl should use some cheek coloring. That's one of his most rigid beauty laws. The blanching, vivid lip, shadowed eye is too exotic for the average girl, too exotic for anyone. It achieved the effect of hard snariness, and that's out of date. Prettiness is the new beauty trend.

We start off then, with the beauty maxim that every girl should use rouge. The next step is choice of color. Choose a delicate shade. The next step is the actual application. How to use it so that it is most effective and most becoming.

Here's where the two types of rouge come in. And, most make-up artists agree that two rouges are better than one. Moist rouge, either liquid or paste is best as the "basic" color. The liquid is a little more difficult to apply than the paste, but with practice the art is mastered.

Wring a pad of cotton out of cold water and dip into skin tonic. Pat the skin. Then with the same pad apply the liquid rouge, using it with a very restraining hand. It is well to be actually "dingy" with the rouge because, for one thing, a little goes a long way and, for another, it is easier to add than to subtract coloring whether paste or liquid.

The blending comes next. The most intense coloring should be at the natural color area and should fade away so that edges are not as all obvious.

The paste rouge may be applied over the skin while it is still moist from skin tonic (not actually wet, but somewhat damp). Or it may be applied over a liquid or cream powder base. Again, blend until the edges are scarcely perceptible.

Powder comes next. It is not rubbed on, because this may rub the rouge off and may in fact injure the skin. It is patted on generously and the excess smoothed away with a soft puff or a powder brush. Then, if the rouge is too "flat" the color is heightened by the second rouge—the dry variety called cake or compact rouge.

Same Basic Tone
Both types of rouge should have the same basic tone. It is obvious that one orange-red and one blue-red rouge may not result in a perfect blend. And both types should harmonize with the individual's own coloring.

My complete bulletin on "Make-Up" may be had for a self-addressed, stamped (3-cent) envelope. Please mention the name "Make-Up Bulletin" in your request.

GOOD TASTE TODAY

BY EMILY POST

A BRIDE-TO-BE ASKS ABOUT HER YOUNG FRIENDS

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it possible for a bride to have only children attendants and yet not have a wedding that looks like a kindergarten party? I have many dear friends here with whom I have grown up, and other dear friends elsewhere who have been more recently close to me in college. I don't know how to choose a half dozen of them at the most, without hurting the feelings of a great many others.

Neither my fiancé nor I have any sisters and there are no women relatives of suitable age. But I do have eight young friends—four boys and four girls—all nearly enough to one age so as to be almost the same size. Their ages range from six to nine years. Could I use these children in the wedding and if so how could they be arranged? My fiancé will have a best man but I would not have an older attendant at all and would carry a prayer book so there will be no complaining problem of the wedding bouquet during the service. There will have to be four ushers but would they have to take part in the procession if I used the children?

Answer: Since children always add to a picture, I see no reason why you couldn't establish a precedent if you want to. As a matter of fact, they might look very well if you put them in effective clothes, such as the 18th century English portrait type—the boys in long high-waisted white satin trousers and, let's say, blouses of any sheer white material; the little girls in either the same sheer white material with satin sashes or else puffed-sleeved, short-waisted ankle-length white dress dresses. But if they were dressed in their ordinary type of clothes I am afraid the whole effect would be that of a teacher's class going to a May pole party. I think I would let the four little boys walk together first, like ushers, and then the four little girls together following, because the procession would look much longer if they walked boy and girl together. To let the four ushers walk first would probably help to establish a more conventional wedding atmosphere. However, you can decide this at the rehearsal.

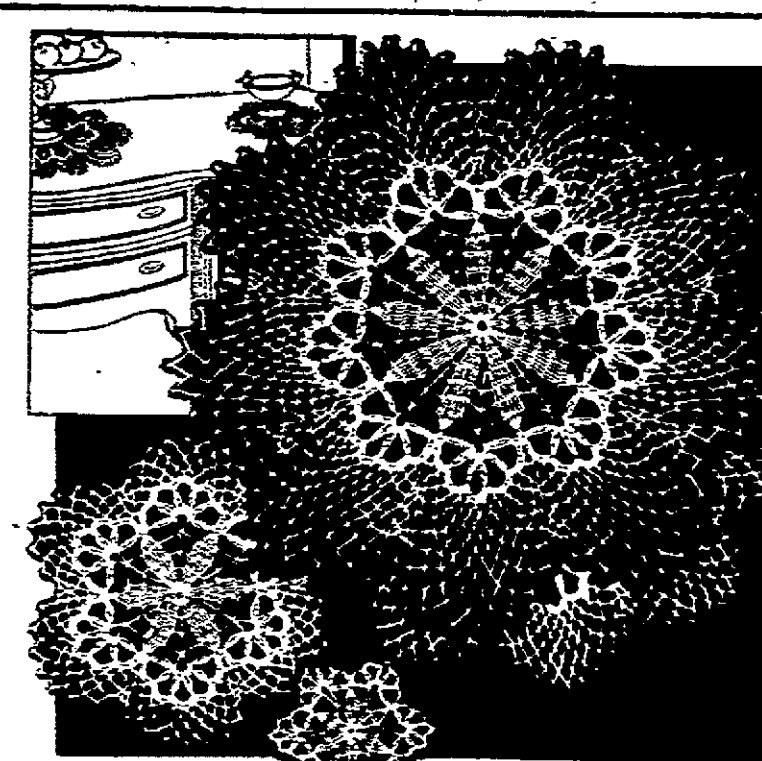

Dear Mrs. Post: How much of a church wedding do you think and let them choke the child to death.

And that stands for every lesson given in school every fine ideal stirred in a child's breast. Provide for its expression or you have done more harm than good.

Mr. Post will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing a three-cent stamp, addressed envelope (paid).

Woman Sacrifices to Keep Man Well-dressed

BY DOROTHY DIX

Dear Miss Dix—The idea that when a woman is married to a slovenly man she should pinch-hit for a valet and send him forth each morning brushed and pressed, spic-and-span and looking like Clark Gable sounded good to me, so I tried it. In the matrimonial lottery I had the luck to draw a husband who always appeared to have just been fished out of the dirty-clothes hamper, so I would take away the soiled shirt and replace it with a clean one with the buttons all in place. I'd sit at home darn- ing socks and putting false cuffs on Papa's pants because he was too stingy to buy new ones. I'd wash Papa's face and ears and dress his suit and make him look like a clothing ad. But one day when I was mending Papa's coat what I find but a letter from Papa's girl friend, and that set me wondering if maybe I hadn't furnished Papa up so much and made him look good to other women I might have kept him for myself.

Answer: Mrs. V. B. S.

Don't ask me. Nobody knows the answer, though millions of women spend their lives trying to figure it out. How to be a good wife and not ruin hubby is the insoluble cross-word puzzle of the ages. Your experience is an example in point. You took a slouchy, unshorn and unshaven man whose trousers bagged at the knees and whose linen was not beyond reproach and at whom, in his natural state, every woman would have turned up her nose.

You ran him through the laundry and barber shop. You denied your efforts to help your husband self a water wave to buy him a fancy necktie. You sat up nights getting the spots off his waistcoat, and putting a razor edge on his trousers and generally metamorphosed him into the glass of fashion and the mold of form. What's the result?

You've turned the scarecrow into something that catches the feminine eye. Instead of being a humble and being in good taste for two people, other ten years ago and who have a child of six? They were divorced several years ago and each was married and then again divorced, and they are now remarried.

Answer: I think the less they make of the wedding the more dignified. I would therefore suggest that they wait in the vestry until their few friends are seated in the front pews, and then that both together follow the minister to the altar. I would have no procession further than a few flowers on the altar and I would not have organ music.

Old Gardener Says:

BY L. I. HARRINGTON

One of the most valuable additions to the garden in recent years has been the dwarf hardy asters. From the time they come into bloom in late August, until frost, they are covered with dainty, frost flowers. The plants form dwarf mounds and seldom grow more than a foot high. They have the advantage of being perfectly hardy and easy to grow. The best variety seems to be Snow Sprite, which is clear white. Marjorie is a rosy pink and is almost equally good. Victor, pale lavender. Lady Henry Maddocks, pale pink, and Countess of Dudley, pink with a yellow eye, are also to be recommended. Constance, Nobis, Lilac-time and Lavanda are the newest introductions. Plants can go into the ground as soon as it can be worked satisfactorily.

Pattern 4022 is available in sizes 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46. Size 36 takes 3 1/2 yards 56 inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

poor and not worth the gold-diggers' attentions. All of which serves to show that being a wife is a difficult and perilous job. The wonder is that so many girls have the nerve to tackle it.

Dear Dorothy Dix—What do you think of a married man who specializes in affairs with young girls?

Answer: I think he is the lowest of the human species because he is ruining the lives of two people. Often because generally he had children whose peace, security and happiness are wrecked by the misery he brings into their home.

The tortures of the Inquisition were not crueler than the pangs of jealousy a man inflicts on his wife when he leaves her sitting alone for dreary evenings at home while he plays around with young girls. She sounds the depths of misery as she contrasts her fading looks with the girl's fresh beauty, her sadness of the neglected with the other's gay and high spirits, and knows that she has no charms by which to conjure him back again and that she has lost him forever. Nor is her sorrow mitigated by knowing that he is not worth loving; that he is faithless, lacking in honor and respect for his obligation.

The wrong the philanderer does his wife is great but it is not greater than the wrong he does the young girl of whose ignorance of the world he takes advantage, whose innocence he soils, and whose heart too often he breaks, even as he has broken his wife's.

It is easy for a married man to make a girl fall in love with him. She is flattered, to begin with, by thinking that there is something about her that is attractive to a mature man; and she is silly enough to believe that she is a vamp if she can take a married man away from his wife. Then the married man helps her clever and ambitious husband finish his college course and help her hands until he got a start in his profession. Her reward was to have him tell her that he had entirely outgrown her and that she was no longer any companion for a cultured man and one who meant to go to high places in the world.

It amuses the married man to win her, to play with her and to throw her away when a fresher toy catches his fancy. It is nothing to him if the girl has fallen so much in love with him she will never have any love to give any other man, or if he drags her reputation in the dust so no man will want her. There must be a very special punishment saved for the married philanderer.

SHE'S OUTSTANDING AS ART STUDENT

Getting her fingers dirty doesn't bother Marjorie Bergstrom, 13-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Bergstrom, 561 E. Wisconsin avenue, Neenah, when the cause is charcoal used in portrait and landscape sketches in her art class at Winnebago Day school, Menasha. The picture on the easel before which Marjorie is sitting in the above picture is on display at the arts and crafts exhibit of work done by Winnebago Day school students in the Neenah library. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Menasha — One of the promising students in the art course at Winnebago Day school is Marjorie Bergstrom, 13-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Bergstrom, 561 E. Wisconsin avenue, Neenah, whose charcoal portraits and landscapes have brought her recognition from instructors and Twin City residents. Two sketches, one a portrait and one of a redwood forest, are on display in the Neenah library, where an exhibit of arts and crafts work of Winnebago Day school students is being held for three weeks.

Of Marjorie's work, Miss Grace Hammes, art instructor at the school, says, "She handles pastels nicely and there is good feeling for shadow and depth in both portrait and landscape pictures."

The students are allowed to express individuality at the same time that they are taught to improve their technique. Exhibitors who have work on display at the Neenah library besides Marjorie Bergstrom are Natalie Bergstrom, Betty Faivey, Alice Gilbert, Gloria Gilbert, Jo-Jo Kimberly, Bob and Bill Kimberly, Bill Kellett, Karen Kellett and Peter Mahler.

Start Removal of Rough Fish Soon After Ice Leaves

Work Being Planned on Winnebago, Winneconne, Other Lakes

(Post-Crescent Madison Bureau)

Madison — Removal of carp and other rough fish harmful to game species from Lakes Winnebago, Big Butte des Morts, Winneconne and Little Butte des Morts will be resumed as soon as the ice leaves these lakes, Robert Gray of the state conservation department announced Monday.

Gray explained that removal operations will be more efficient this year with the addition of new equipment and with the completion of a new sturgeon pond on the grounds of the Northern state hospital in Winnebago county. The pond is now under construction and will be finished before the ice leaves the lake, Gray said. Carp and other rough fish will be kept there until fall, when the best market opens.

The state conservation department will carry on its work on Lake Winnebago with half a dozen boats with a crew of 16 men. Another crew of 12 men will work on the Fox River at Omro, Gray said.

Last fall in September 1 until the lakes froze over, the state crews and contract fishermen removed more than 313,555 pounds of carp and similar varieties from Lake Winnebago. This spring a greater amount will be taken, it is expected.

Gray explained that contract fishermen are no longer willing to contract for removal of carp from the Fox River above Lake Winnebago. Several years ago, he said, fishermen operated below Kaukauna, and found their product unsalable because of the condition of the Fox River water.

Knorr, resident engineer, discussed additional equipment, including an icebox, and was instructed to get bids on painting of the pump and engine rooms and insulating the ceilings and painting of the elevated tank. Authorization was given P. E. Mace, superintendent of the water works, to enclose a chlorinator hose in a metal tube.

Stars, Minnesota, Zephyrs Win Y Boys' Cage Crowns

Season Ends as Three Divisions Select Champions

All-Stars Wallop Triangles Second Time in O. B. Series

Y. M. C. A. LEAGUES
Championship Games
All-Stars beat Triangles, 34 to 24, for Older Boy title.
Minnesota beat Wisconsin, 25 to 17, for Pioneer league title.
Zephyrs beat the Wildcats, 6 to 4, for the Friendly Indian title.

THE curtain was rung down on the Y. M. C. A. boys' leagues last night when three championship games were played in what was called a "world series." The evening's program also saw the winners in a recent free throw contest rewarded.

All-Stars defeated the Triangles, 34 to 24, in the second game of a three game series for the Older Boy crown. As the Stars also copped the first game, last night's win ended the series.

The Stars took an 8 to 1 lead at the quarter and were ahead 13 to 4 when the teams rested at the half. In the third period the Triangles outscored the Stars but still trailed 20 to 13. The fourth period saw the "giants" on the Star team win easily 34 to 24.

Vandenbergh, Fourness and Jones played the best ball for the winners while Beck, John Bick and Kohal showed well for the losers.

The Pioneer division title went to the Minnesota team with a 25 to 17 victory over Wisconsin. The Wisconsin team made the Gophers look bad in the first quarter when the Badgers led 4 to 1 and when they took an 8 to 2 lead at the half things looked exceptionally bad.

But the Gophers talked things over during the intermission and came back in the third period to score 11 points and take a 13 to 12 lead. Thereafter they kept piling on the markers and won easily, 25 to 17. Lathrop, Schwierke and Kessler were standouts for the Minnesota team while Blacher, Barman and Straut looked best for the losers.

Lathrop scored six baskets for the winning team and with two free throws accounted for 14 points.

Zephyrs Win Title

Zephyrs took the championship of the Friendly Indian circuit when they beat the Wildcats, 6 to 4. The two teams featured the youngest group in the Y boys' division and it was little short of a war when they met.

Zephyrs took a 2 to 0 lead in the second quarter when Schulte got off a big heave that clicked. In the third quarter Heckert took the score at 4-0 with a neat one-handed shot for the Wildcats. However, Olson, a chubby youngster, uncorked a one-bander under the hoop to put his team ahead, 4 to 2. Younger then added another shot to make it 6 to 2. In the fourth period Heckert got another sensational shot for his team but the Cats couldn't keep up their shot to earn a tie.

THEY'RE CHAMPIONS—ALL OF THEM

Here are the three championship basketball teams in the various divisions of the boys' department of the Y.M.C.A.

The big fellows—and no fooling, a couple of them really are big—above, are the All-Stars, winners of the Older Boys' league title. Last night they won the second game of a three-game series to decide the championship with the Triangles as the losers. The boys are, standing, left to right, Vinc Jones, Ken Killoren and Ralph Van Handel; seated, left to right, Jim Fernal, Elmo Vandenberg, Karl Kolb and John Fourness.

Brewers Fumble Way to 6-2 Defeat

Schilling Has Two Errors And Otto Bluege Turns in Three

Biloxi, Miss.—Eleven paid patrons watched the Milwaukee Brewers fumble their way into a 6 to 2 defeat yesterday in an exhibition game against Memphis of the Southern league.

Manager Allan Sothoron trotted out a revamped lineup, replacing the veteran Len Sorel at third with Jimmy Schilling and sending Frenchy Uhl into centerfield for his first spring appearance. Uhl failed to get a hit and Schilling contributed two errors to the Brewers' total of five.

Snootson Otto Bluege was responsible for the other three. Louie Ann was charged with the defeat.

Weller Again Is Softball Prexy

American League Organizes and Names Its Officers

Organization of the American Softball league for the coming season with Hilbert J. Weller as president, Walter Brueggeman of Coated Paper and Lee Barlemer of the Woolen Mills as secretary and treasurer, was effected at a meeting last night at the Y. M. C. A. Weller will be starting his ninth season as president.

Eight teams have been admitted to the league. They are the Machines-K. C., the Woolen Mills, Turtle Press, Riverside Paper, Fox River Paper, Interlake Paper, Coated Paper and Atlas. Last year the circuit operated with ten teams.

The season will open on Tuesday, May 4, at Roosevelt school. There will be no split season.

The opening week's schedule follows:
Tuesday, May 4—Machines versus Woolens.
Wednesday, May 5—Fox River versus Interlake.
Thursday, May 6—Turtle Press versus Riverside.
Friday, May 7—Atlas Mill versus Coated.

Plan Athletic Club at Kimberly

Organization Will Be Attempted at Meeting This Evening

Kimberly—Formation of an athletic club will be discussed at a meeting at the clubhouse this evening. Pledges to join the club have been circulated and if there are enough signed and turned in a drive for members will be started immediately.

From all indications the club will start its drive at this meeting. Membership in the club will include a banquet with entertainment within ten days after the drive. A dance also will be held next winter and free admission to wives and lady friends of members to the first baseball and basketball games will be granted.

Officers of the club will be elected at the members' banquet after the drive. Announcement has been made that the club will receive support from the Kimberly-Clark Corporation and the village board. The proposed club will make an effort to sponsor all teams which have inter-city competition. Members will not be assessed for expenses incurred by any team. In case it is necessary to raise funds, dances will be held.

Following the meeting all baseball players who are interested in playing for Kimberly in the Northern State League will gather to discuss formation of a team. Players in neighboring cities interested in trying for the Kimberly team are asked to attend.

Henry Ullmer Drops Chicago Mitt Verdict

Chicago—(P)—Henry Ullmer, Milwaukee, 164, lost a four round decision to Al Petterson, 206, South Bend, Ind., in a boxing match here last night. In another event Henry Bleithoe, 158, Milwaukee, outpointed K. O. Billy Weight, 155, St. Louis, in four rounds.

Badger Duo Fifth in ABC Doubles Standings

New York—(P)—T. Schwoegler and O. Rassmussen, of Madison, Wis., held fifth position today in the American Bowling Congress tournament event with a score of 1,271, 56 pins behind the leaders.

Alex Carey, of Belleville, Mich., occupied top standing in the all-events with 559, 705, 693 for a 1,957 total. F. Wolf and H. Adams of Detroit were fourth and fifth.

Badger Gridders Workout in Mud

Nearly 100 Pigskin Warriors Report to Stuhldreher

Madison—(P)—Mud, a chill wind and threat of rain didn't discourage University of Wisconsin football players yesterday as Coach Harry Stuhldreher directed the first outdoor workout of the season at Camp Randall.

Nearly 100 uniformed Badgers plowed through ankle deep mud and fumbled the pigskin with number fingers as four assistant coaches sent a quartet of squads through light calisthenics and passing drills.

The four teams—nicknamed Yale, Harvard, Dartmouth and Princeton—will compete in a round-robin tournament during the ensuing spring training period. An intrasquad finale will conclude the "warm weather" schedule late in May with the annual Army-Navy clash.

The Badgers, in preliminary observations, look big at the ends and center, faster in the backfield, and relatively weak at the tackle posts where all but one experienced man graduated.

Spring training will continue all this week, six days a week thereafter, with no time out for thunderstorms and wintry blasts. The weather today was clear.

"We might as well get used to it now," Stuhldreher said. "Four out of our eight games last year were played in rain and mud."

Fights Last Night

By the Associated Press
New York—Pedro Montanez, 138½, Puerto Rico, outpointed Lou Ambers, 137, world's lightweight champion, New York, non-title.

Chicago—Johnny Cellura, 128, Detroit, outpointed Pat Robertson, 128, New York; Billy Marquardt, 129½, Winnipeg, Mann, stopped Lloyd Pine, 128½, Akron, O. (2).

Buffalo—Jimmy Clark, 151, Jamestown, N. Y., outpointed Pat Mahoney, 163, Buffalo, 6.

Newark—Tony Canzoneri, 138, New York, stopped George Levy, 136½, Trenton, N. J., 17.

Plainfield, N. J.—Joe Wagner, 161, Cleveland, knocked out Hans Kohlhaas, 195, Germany, (4).

A. L. Rookies Appear to Be Headed for Big Year

CHICAGO—(P)—It looks like a boom year for American league rookies.

With the opening of the season two weeks away, 30 or more new men may be carried on the club rosters up to May 15 with a chance that at least 50 will remain after the date on which each major league club is limited to 25 players.

The Detroit Tigers, the general choice to make the New York Yankees humble for the pennant race, bob up with a flock of new faces.

George Tebbel's has presented to Manager Macky Connors as a catcher, and Rudy York, the slugger up from Milwaukee, may set the third base assignment over the next fielding but weak hitting Marvin Owen. Chet Laabs may win his fight for an outfield job and pitchers Bob Logan and Dizzy Trout may stick.

The Boston Red Sox survivors probably will be Catcher Gene DeSauteles, not exactly a rookie but a newcomer to the gold platers, Pitcher Archie McKain and Second Baseman Bobby Doerr, who looms as a coming star. Among the Chicago White Sox novices may be

Henry Stenhamner, Steve Mesner and Pitcher John Roney, who has been hurtling brilliantly.

Indians Have Feller
Bob Feller, the sensational kid nunter on whom Cleveland Indians count so much, heads the list of Tribe newcomers. Geoffrey Hearn a new outfielder, is expected to stay.

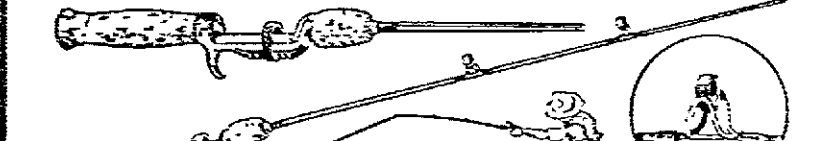

Cornie Mack may present several new men on the Philadelphia Athletics, among them Earl Bucker, catcher, and pitcher George Casper and pitcher Thomas, pitchers.

Francis Lou, a Koptal, late of Los Angeles, and Second Baseman Ger and Luscombe may stick with the St. Louis Browns, while Harry Davis, formerly of Detroit, is expected to be another newcomer to Brownie ranks.

Washington will not place many new men in the field. Outfielders Freddie Stinson and Taft Wright probably will survive as will Pitcher Johnny Salvo.

There isn't any rookie problem with the New York champions. Most of the youngsters given a trip to the Yankee camp didn't even bother to unpack their bags.

EVE'S ORCHARD

By MARGARET WIDDEMER

SYNOPSIS: Eve Mannersfield and Denny Carter plan to sail in two weeks on a honeymoon trip around the world, now that Denny, a slim, proud southerner, has landed a publicity job with Southern Star Line. Eve has already resigned from Herndon's advertising company. The tenants leave her old Connecticut house which means she will have to clean it hopefully for another set. Gail, lurching party that night to "tell the world our secret." Eve invites their friends by phone.

CHAPTER THREE
LIVERWURST INTO PATE
I WAS a lucky night. Nearly everyone Eve called could come, some not till after the theater or movies. The Featherstones asked to be her first "piano" year-old Judge along as usual and Mitzi Power expected two men in and would bring them if that was all right. Eve mentally borrowed dishes from Ellen Walton. In 77 and said "Sweet" to both requests. She and brown little Ellen—clever actress of voluble words parts professionally, in real life a wise staid person who usually wore black satin and neat white collars—had a system of mutual borrowing. Better count up before going on telephoning so widely. Sixteen to 20 people. Seed have to telephone for more Italian bread.

She secured Ellen's promise of glass and silver, and snatched a moment for her own supper. The doorbell rang, and she went, only as she walked for it was either Denny or the extra bread. It proved to be Denny of course. "Well, look at Denny's all to eat!" "I thought I'd better," he said, with an odd seriousness after tea, and her, as he began to unpack the contents of the suitcase he carried, glasses, and a carton of homemade gin.

"Anything more, Denny?" He replied, his neck to her. "Well, yes, I—oh, gosh Eve, I—" "No." "And we still love each other." "Heavens yes!" He did turn on, and caught her in his arms. She knew his habit of easy expression, balanced by as easy an elation. She gave him a gentle shake. "Well, let's postpone whatever it is till next week, this party." He replied, "I'll be right here." "All right, but remember I want to." "Course I wanted to! Here he is, useful citizen and mash up the liverwurst with the mayonnaise till it's pate de foie gras. That soup plate." "This for supper?" "No, idiot, supper's around 11:30 or 12. Cheap and exciting. Italian bread toasted and buttered and garlicked, with hot milk and lots of cheese. You can make the salad." "Sounds crazy." "Well, if they don't like it, they can bring their own tied up in a red handkerchief. I asked poor old Dillard," she added as she began to

Used Trailers Won't Ever Cause Same Headaches as Thousands of Used Cars

BY CARL W. JASON
Biloxi, Miss.—The used house trailer will, in all probability, never be the chronic headache for the dealer as is the second-hand automobile. Whereas when a car ceases to function on the highways its career is definitely ended and it is merely meat for the voracious junk dealer, the case of the trailer is altogether different. The trailer, after it is a home and will remain available as such as long as it holds together. The future of the venerable trailer is indicated by the following Want-Ad appearing in the classified department of a Chicago daily last Sunday: "Want to buy a few second-hand auto trailers with or without wheels to set on lots and rent for small homes. — Monmouth, Ill."

It is obvious that a trailer may be set on a vacant lot, beside a stream, upon a salt water or lake beach or on any odd plot of ground and be utilized as a residence as readily and satisfactorily as in any regular tourist camp. Numerous persons who enjoy the trailer accommodations wheel and dwell just as comfortably in one of these domiciles in any fixed location they may choose. And the trailer bodies may feed the hunger of many travel-longing citizens who are never able to actually get onto the road and fare to realms afar.

Endless Possibilities.
In fact the possibilities of the discarded trailer for continued usefulness and popularity are endless. Future years will see them dropped everywhere unless mean-spirited and envious legislating interferes with banning regulations. But it is not difficult to picture stationary trailer courts replacing the now familiar cottage and bungalow courts—a collection of trailers arranged on some convenient site and rented at low prices to willing tenants. Groups of persons of like tastes or means may purchase junked trailers and establish communities of their own. Old trailers may come to, in part, replace the small apartment. As long as I kept a grip on that wire the music was divine but as soon as I let go—no music. I got into the habit of lying around with that wire hooked onto a ring or about one finger and sometimes went to sleep that way. Finally, after vainly trying to get results by attaching to nearly everything in sight in the trailer I was given the hint to hook the wire to the screen of the nearby window. Immediately the trouble vanished and the radio has performed perfectly ever since.

Always Littered.
Trailers being usually parked on open ground are perennially littered with dirt, leaves, grass, etc. One constantly tracks in such debris even in the driest weather while when it rains—heavens. And no pennies either. Those wet days would give the cleaner girl a "crick" in the back, and exercise vigilance as the price of a clean trailer is costly a truism then. This condition may be greatly improved, however, by having some sort of mat outside the door. A traveler will find it helpful to carry along a square of old linoleum or similar stiff smooth rug to lay down under the step. It will not be in an everlasting tangle, is easily cleaned and will take up much dirt that would otherwise be carried inside on the shoes. A good-looking mat also enhances the appearance of the trailer front.

Russia, with 1,700,000 men killed in action, suffered the heaviest loss of any nation in the World war. Germany was second with 1,600,000 and France third with 1,300,000. About 65,000 Americans were killed.

Hollywood News And Gossip
BY ROBBIN COONS
Hollywood—The thrills of a hand-to-hand fight are being combined with studio economy on the "King of the Gamblers" set.
Akim Tamiroff, the title character and Loyd Nolan, playing an intrepid reporter, are the antagonists. Robert Florey, the director, makes a scene in which Nolan leads raiders to Tamiroff's den. Then he transfers action to another set a few feet away where Tamiroff and Nolan have their grudge battle. Tamiroff and Nolan go over with practically all the other set attendants to watch themselves fight.
It is a good fight, and Tamiroff expresses delight at the way he tears into Nolan. Stunt men, of course, are doing the dirty work. Duke Green is Tamiroff's lightning double, and Chick Collins serves for Nolan. Green doubled for Tamiroff in fight scenes of "Michael Strogoff" also, and the actor applauded his work in that.
Green and Collins, in their rough-and-tumble warfare, have turned over tables and chairs and torn down draperies. They also have practically runned each other, apparently. Then Florey calls a halt, and the fighters go to the sidelines, panting but unhurt, to swap stunt talk. Most amiably, Tamiroff dons Green's coat. Nolan takes Chick's, and they are ready for close-ups—ready, that is, after they have mused for their hair.
The fight takes two minutes, but restoring the set for another "take" requires 35. Florey goes back to his original set, saving time while the restoration is under way. . . .
Fred Astaire and Harriet Hector are doing their ballet number "Shall We Dance?" Ginger Rogers as usual is Astaire's heroine, but Miss Hector, former Ziegfeld prima ballerina is his partner in this number. It is her second film work, she having appeared in "The Great Ziegfeld."
It is a beautiful set, and pretty ballet girls in short ruffled dresses complete the picture. Miss Hector wears flowing feathers, and she and Astaire, who wears satin blouse and tight black trousers, rehearse on the black floor which is kept shining by prop men with mops. The women seem unaware of the proximity of so much beauty, but keep time in George Gershwin's music from the play-back instrument.
This is supposed to be Astaire's first ballet number. When they do it, it is something to see. But it seems to me Fred is dancing as he usually does. Perhaps ballet is a state of mind and not a state of feet.
On the Kay Francis set of "One Hour of Romance" Best Ralphone, very distinguished with silvered hair, is doing a moment of romance with Jane Bryan, who plays Kay's daughter, Ralphone. I am informed, she's shot by Miss Francis starting from that. I try to guess the story. It would be, I venture, one about Kay's having been done wrong by Ralphone. In later years, Ralphone is up to his old tricks, and Kay, to save her daughter, etc. It would be it.
But I am going to see the picture regardless. This story always has made good pictures.

Democrats Plan Attack on Budget Bill This Week

Administration Measure to Meet With Concerted Opposition

Madison.—P—Assembly Democrats have organized for a mass attack on Governor La Follette's executive budget bill when it comes up for action in the house next Thursday.

The Democratic legislators have agreed upon 32 amendments to the massive bill, as reported out by the joint finance committee, and the main objective is to strip the governor and the emergency board of any control over money from tax-increases that will be necessary to satisfy budget requests.

The principal amendment, by Assemblyman Maurice Fitzsimons, would du Lac, alter the most vital part of the bill as conceived by the governor's advisers.

The measure cuts all existing appropriations about 15 per cent to bring them in line with estimated normal tax revenues and requires an additional sum of about $6,000,000 a year to the emergency board of which the governor is chairman, to increase the allocations when and if funds are raised.

Strike Out Authority

The Fitzsimons amendment would strike out that authority. Other changes proposed by him and his colleagues would make flat, unconditional appropriations for educational, local and agricultural aids, which in most cases are equal to or higher than the current appropriations.

Although the executive office contends the emergency board is specifically deprived of any power to favor one department over another and that all tax increases will be shared proportionately under the bill, Fitzsimons claimed that the proposal would set the governor up as "dictator."

"I am of the opinion," he said, "that we should decide now what our boards, bureaus, commissions and local agencies need in the way of appropriations and aids for the next biennium, and then raise sufficient taxes to meet the needs."

Makes Changes

"I charge that the governor has not followed out the intent of the statutes in not presenting his budget requests to the legislature personally. I charge further that the finance committee is derelict in its duty in not giving concrete recommendations of appropriations and tax measures to the legislature."

"However, I am trying to rectify their errors by the amendments set out here."

Democrats who will join Fitzsimons in submitting amendments are Nicholas J. Bickel, Belgium; Francis Yandra, Manitowish; Patrice Deugs, Ft. Atkinson; Henry O. Schoraker, West Bend; Elmer Genzmer, Marquette; Charles A. Leach, Plymouth; Robert H. Roche, Portage; Martin Howard, Milwaukee; James T. Cavanaugh, Antioch; William J. Sweeney, Green Bay; Henry E. Krueger, Beaver Dam; and Albert D. Shumak, Alsoma.

They claimed their amendments are worth $7,925,000 to the people of the state.

The budget bill is divided into two main parts, "A" and "B." The "A" budget appropriates $45,500,000 for the next two years, a decrease of $8,000,000 under the last two years. The "B" budget appropriates more than $65,000,000, of which $19,000,000 is conditional upon the raising of new taxes.

Plan Two Intramural Contests at School

Plan 7 Events For Scout Rally

Troops From Marion, Clintonville and Bear Creek To Compete

Two intramural tournaments are scheduled at Appleton High school prior to the start of the regular spring games. Fifteen juniors, 14 sophomores and 14 seniors have registered for the basketball golf tournament while six teams have signed for the mixed double shuffleboard tournament. All teams in the latter event will include one girl and one boy.

Seven special events will feature the annual rally for Boy Scouts from Bear Creek, Marion and Clintonville at Bear Creek, Thursday evening, April 8. The rally will open a life line contest involving one patrol from each troop. Eight pieces of rope, each three feet long, must be tied with a square knot and the patrol which finishes in the shortest time will be judged the winner.

A compass relay will be the second event and in this each patrol must correctly mark 10 principal points of the compass. In the third event, a relay race, two scouts and a patrol from each troop will compete. The patrol lies on a line 20 yards from the start and his two companions must form a stretcher and bring him to the starting point.

The O'Grady drill which is similar to a spelling bee will find one bonanza patrol from each competing troop vying for top honors. A Paul Revere race is the next scheduled event and in this each patrol will be represented by one Revere and four horses.

Any scout may compete in the fire-making contest and each must use a fire by friction set with bow and feather, a rocket and a torch and a fire board. and professions. She said frankly that middle-aged women were stuffy, and what good were they? So she had charged and conquered this group of gay hard-working young people, 10 years her junior (though one didn't mention it). Her limousine and theater tickets and even on occasion her least good evening frocks were at the crowd's service; in return for this, she surrounded herself with the crowd's young men.

But the court tonight—otherwise Jack and George, now grouped on each side of Mimi in correct tails—had an alien air. Jack was heavy-set, high-colored, black-and-red; a heavy coarse handsomeness aided by the too-confident manner of the man who knows he is wonderful with the ladies. In spite of this he was well-bred so far as effort and money could contribute. George, on the left, was not so noticeable; a middle-sized, squarely built man of perhaps 34, with thick, smooth-brushed, sandy hair, and bright, blue eyes in an inexpressive, wind-burned face. Far from having Jack's attitude, George had an almost English detachment and stiffness of manner as Mimi went on with her introductions.

"George's father is the chairman of Northern Steel, isn't he, George? And George is something awfully deep and scientific on his own; and Jack—Jack's this one with the black mustache like Clark Gable—he's a brother who actually still brookes, don't you, Jacky darling?"

"Off and on," said Jack. "Are all your girl friends in Bohemia this beautiful, Mimi?"

She did not see why she should be considered a Bohemian, and stiffened a little.

Ann Sothern says:

"I like Luckies—they're smooth on my throat"

"I like Luckies because... well, just because I like them, that's all! They're an old standby of mine. They taste grand and they're as smooth as can be on my throat. I suppose Luckies get along so well with my throat because they're what you call a light smoke. I like them—and I'm glad to put it in black and white."

LUCKY STRIKE CIGARETTES

THE FINEST TOBACCO—THE CREAM OF THE CROP

An independent survey was made recently among professional men and women—lawyers, doctors, lecturers, scientists, etc. Of those who said they smoke cigarettes, more than 87% stated they personally prefer a light smoke.

Miss Sothern verifies the wisdom of this preference, and so do other leading artists of the radio, stage, screen and opera. Their voices are their fortunes. That's why so many of them smoke Luckies. You, too, can have the throat protection of Luckies—a light smoke, free of certain harsh irritants removed by the exclusive process "It's Toasted". Luckies are gentle on the throat.
